WENTZ NOT

Wise county, led by D. B. Wentz, who is said to be frantic over the seemingly hopeless situation.

Euggestive of the theory of kidnapping in connection with the disappearance of E. L. Wentz, a tramp was arrested at stonega, Va., headquarters of the Virginia Coal and Iron Company operations, to-day. This tramp displayed a deck of cards, professing to understand witcheraft, and said that he could so shuffle the cards as to locate the missing man, and that for $2,000 he would produce him. THREATS OF LYNCHING.

There were threats of lynching the man, who, it is said, had previously been seen to part with a suspicious looking man outside of the town, and the officers hurried him to jail at Wise, Va.

FAMILY ACT QUEERLY

Disposed at First to Treat the Matter Jocularly. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 17.-Relaives of E. L. Wentz, for whom one thousand men are searching in Wise

tives of E. L. Wentz, for whom one thousand men are searching in Wise county, W. Va., are not inclined to let the public into their confidence while efforts are being made to clear up the mystery surrounding that young man's disappearance.

His father, J. S. Wentz, the wealthy mine owner, was not at his home, 225 South Thirty-ninth Street, to-day. At his office in the Girard building visitors were told that he was out of town, presumably he had gone to West Virginia to assist in the search that aniel E. Wentz, an older son, who lived with his brother at Big Stone Gap, has instituted. Another brother of the missing man, J. L. Wentz, who assists his father in the management of the Philadelphia office, refused to say anything regarding the affair. He at first was inclined to treat the whole matter jocularly, and while he finally admitted that there might be truth in the reports, he refused to reveal what, if any, private information he had received.

At the Wentz home it was learned that the younger brothers, D. B, and E. L. Wentz, have managed the West Virginia estate for their father for years. The estate consists of a 2,000-acre tract of land, rich coal and iron deposits. Several mines are in operation. The brothers have a fine country residence at Big Stone Gap and entertain extensively. Parties of friends from Philadelphia frequently visit them there.

Much of their time is spent in riding over the estate, whose surface is rough and mountainous. The younger brothers

Every Effort Fails.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BIG STONE GAP, VA., Oct. 17.—Though
every foot of the country between here and Norton has been scoured by searching parties and every cave in the mountains expiored, no trace has been found of Edward Leisenring Wentz, of Philladelpina, who disappeared Wednesday afternoon from the mountains near Appalachia, through which be was riding enroute to the home of charles Waz, his employe, at Lipps. Practically all of the miners in Wise county are to-night searching the woods, and some have even gone to the State of Kentucky.

D. B. Wentz, brother of the missing man, was with a posse all day, and only returned late to-night.

Mrs. Wentz said to-day that none of the family believed that Mr. Wentz had been murdered, but were of the opinion that he was being held for ransom by some of the mountaineers.

A reward of $5,000 has been offered for the recovery of his body, dead or alive.

PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD

The annual session of the Presbyterian Synod of Virginia will begin Tuesday in Abingdon, to continue several days. All the Presbyterian ministers of Richmond will be in attendance. The majority of them will leave to-morrow, reaching the meeting place in time for the opening. All trains arriving between 8 A. M. and 12 o'clock midnight will be met by committees, Guests arriving on trains later than midnight will report at the Presbyterian Church the next morning, when they will be assigned to homes.

Great interest is felt by the Presbyterians here in the session of the Synod. The routine business of the body will consume the greater part of the session. The only special matter scheduled to come up is the question of division, of which mention has been made before. There will probably be some pretty lively debates on this question.
